THE NATIONAL CAPITAL

The Day of Final Adjournment Drawing Nigh.

Senate Programme for the Remainder of the Session.

Sherman's Opinion of Platforms as Guide to Senators.

The Senate Programme.

WASHINGTON, June 23.—There was a well attended caucus of republican senators at the capitol this evening to consider order of business for the remainder of the session. The question of final adjournment was only briefly alluded to, but the discussion of other matters proceeded upon the understanding that the end of the session would be reached not later than the 5th of July. An order of business was decided upon substantially as follows: The Mexican pension bill is to be disposed of at 3 o'clock to morrow. Thereafter the annual appropriation bills, including the river and harbor bill, are to have precedence as fast as they are ready. When no appropriation bills are ready important measures on the calendar are to be taken up and disposed of in the following order: Inter state commerce bill, land grant for the future bills, postal telegraph bill, bill relating to route of railroad lines into Washington City, anti Chinese bill, contract labor bill and the bill for the admission of Dakota. It is not to be expected that all these measures will be reached, since final adjournment will not be delayed for them after the appropriation bills are disposed of.

Democratic Economy.

WASHINGTON, June 23.—The attorney general sent to the senate to-day a communication in which he calls attention to the failure of the house to provide in the general deficiency bill for deficiencies under various bureaus of the department of justice. Among these are a deficiency of $20,000 for fees, etc., in the marshal's office for which the house only appropriated $50,000, and a deficiency of $12,000 for final payment of special attorneys employed in the prosecution of the Guiteau case. Referring to the amount required for final payment of attorneys in the Guiteau case the attorney general says: "It appears to me that failure to provide for their payment for service in that case is a national reproach. He also calls attention to the proviso in the house bill limiting the use of money therein appropriated to payment of district attorneys and their regular assistants and excluding payment to special counsel heretofore employed. He says he thinks this proviso is unjust to the special counsel who have served the government in good faith.

Another Version.

WASHINGTON, June 23.—The Springer committee had summoned Judge Key to appear this morning but he was not on hand. The committee adjourned until to-morrow. After adjournment Colgrove voluntarily told Chairman Springer that he (Colgrove) had seen Judge Key since Saturday and Key advises me he had made a mistake in representing him (Key) as saying Ker was willing to drop the case against Colgrove for 5,000 dollars; that Key now declares what he did say was that Ker insisted to him that Colgrove ought to be made to pay back the money he had received from the government.

Forfeiture Favored.

WASHINGTON, June 23.—The senate committee on public lands voted to report favorably the bill providing forfeiture of the land grant of the Marquette, Houghton & Ontonagon railroad company, in Michigan and has sent to the courts for all quotations regarding rights of the company for road already constructed as well as homestead settlers,' preemptors' and other claimants' portions of land.

Washington Notes.

The impression prevails here that congress will finally adjourn about the fifth of July.

The treasury department will issue $250,000 in one and two dollar notes the last of the week.

The president has signed a patent for the Pueblo lands of San Francisco to the city of San Francisco.

The president has received the Fitz John Porter bill and will lay it before the cabinet to-day for consideration.

The committee appointed by the republican national convention to notify Blaine and Logan of their nomination will call upon Senator Logan to-day and formally notify him that he has been selected to fill the second place on the republican ticket.

XLVIII Congress,

HOUSE.

WASHINGTON, June 23.—Hancock introduced a bill authorizing the funding of the entire bonded debt of the United States in two per cent. fifty-year bonds. Referred.

Randall, chairman of the committee on appropriations, said he was directed by the unanimous voice of that committee to move to suspend the rules and pass the sundry civil appropriation bill. He wished first to give the house an opportunity to vote upon a few amendments, the most important of which was that reported by the committee on expenditure in the department of justice relative to salaries of U. S. marshals and district attorneys.

Some opposition was manifested to the proposition to pass the bill under suspension of the rules. Morrison asked unanimous consent to be allowed to offer an amendment directing the secretary of the treasury to apply surplus revenue at any time in the treasury in excess of $100,000,000 and not otherwise appropriated to the redemption of United States bonds; and when any of said bonds are redeemable at the pleasure of the government it shall not be lawful to apply any portion of the surplus to the purchase of bonds at a premium.

Randall joined Morrison in this request, but Hiscock objected.

The reading of the bill was then proceeded with and when concluded the thirty minute debate permitted under the rules was entered upon.

Hiscock briefly explained the reason why he had objected to Morrison's amendment. There were about $118,000,000 unappropriated in the treasury. Of this $75,000,000 was in silver coin or fractional currency. The result of the amendment would be to force from the treasury in gold all available in excess of $100,000,000, leaving in the treasury as a result $75,000,000 in silver and $25,000,000 in gold. He objected most emphatically to putting, as a rider, upon an appropriation bill, legislation which might be as serious in its consequences as this.

Morrison said the objected amendment was simply to reach what was called the surplus in the treasury. Money in the treasury for the purpose of redeeming silver or gold certificates or notes of banks which had gone into liquidation, and other funds in the treasury for specific purposes, were not counted in the surplus. As to interfering with the banks there was no such proposition contained in his amendment. It simply said the money which was not needed in the treasury should be applied to the payment of the public debt, and that in paying the debt the secretary of the treasury should not go into the market and buy bonds at a large premium while $200,000,000 bonds were payable at the option of the government.

Randall offered an amendment directing the secretary of war to sell at public auction the following arsenals: Allegheny arsenal in Pennsylvania, Augusta arsenal, Georgia, Indianapolis arsenal, Indiana, Kennebec arsenal, Maine, and Watertown arsenal, Massachusetts. Adopted. Also granting one month's extra pay to house employes. Adopted. Also to strike out the provision that no speech shall be printed in the Record that has not been delivered upon the floor of congress. Adopted, 142 to 17.

Springer then offered an amendment framed by the committee on expenditures in the department of justice providing that U. S. marshals and district attorneys shall be paid stated salaries.

Springer's amendment was adopted. At the suggestion of O'Neill, of Missouri, the proviso that convict labor should be employed in the erection of the unfinished portion of the U. S. penitentiary at Deer Lodge, Montana, was stricken from the bill.

A motion to suspend the rules and pass the sundry civil bill was agreed to, yeas 185, nays 95.

Senate amendments to the army appropriation were non concurred in and the house adjourned.

SENATE.

A resolution was adopted directing the committee on expenditures of public money to investigate recent defalcations in the department and frauds upon the navy department and to inquire into the system of making disbursements and purchases of supplies, with a view to determining whether it embraces sufficient safeguards against defalcations and fraudulent.

The Mexican pension bill was then taken up and consideration proceeded with, Plumb giving notice, whether that bill be finished to day or not, he would to-morrow move to take up the Atlantic and Pacific land grant forfeiture bill.

The pending question in convention with the Mexican pension bill was on the amendment of Ingalls dating pensions of union soldiers from date of discharge or disability and extending to October 1, 1884, the limitation of time to file application for arrears.

Sherman very much regretted to be obliged to oppose any proposition in favor of union soldiers. The committee on pensions had not recommended this proposition. The house of representatives had not recommended it. It was based on the motion of a single senator. The committee on pensions had estimated this proposition would involve the payment of $240,000,000. He asked the senators whether this was the time to so greatly enlarge the demand upon the treasury. When the act of 1870 was passed it was a time of great plenty, after specie payments has been resumed and when the surplus in treasury was fast accumulating and the treasury overflowing. Now our revenues are rapidly falling off, a great shrinkage in values is going on and securities which in '79 were considered good, are now believed worthless. No government in the world could endure if it should attempt to pay all claims and arrears of claims arising out of its misfortunes. Sherman put himself on the broad ground that the soldier who has for 20 years waived his right to a pension, either because he did not desire it or was too proud to claim it, had no legal or even moral or equitable right now to embarrass his government. He believed the adoption of this amendment would be an embarrassing thing for the people of the United States. It would break down all restrictions on all sorts of claims. He would like to see the pension law so amended as to provide for cases of hardship. Yet when an unreasonable demand was made for soldiers he would have the courage to vote against it, even at the risk of being misunderstood.

Conger said there were many thousand soldiers who had had no opportunity to present their claims within the time fixed in the act of '70 and there was no reason in law or equity why they should be discriminated against. The amendment of Ingalls was just and equitable and should be adopted.

Ingalls called Sherman's attention to the fact that the republican platform in Ohio two years ago and that of the republican national convention of this year declared for the thing which this measure embodied, yet the senator from Ohio (Sherman) deliberately disavowed that declaration and declared that it was not binding upon the conscience and upon the political action of those who may be called upon to vote on the question.

Sherman deprecated this introduction of party platforms to guide senators in the performance of their sworn duties. When he remembered that the platform of the late republican convention had been made up in a few hours time on a sweltering hot day by 15 men suddenly called together most of whom never saw each other before, he did not think it should be called a guide for the senators in the performance of their public duty. He thought it an extraordinary spectacle that it should be attempted to so make it a guide. A senator of the United States must have some better guide than hastily-arranged party platforms. He (Sherman) would not be afraid to go before any crowd of soldiers in the United States and make the argument he had made to day. He believed the judgment of the prudent, sensible, candid, fair men among them would be with him.

Ingalls' amendment was voted down, yeas 26, nays 30, as follows:

Yeas—Allison, Blair, Bowen, Cameron, (Wis.,) Conger, Cullom, Dawes, Dolph, Frye, Hoar, Harrison, Ingalls, Lapham, Logan, McMillan, Mahone, Manderson, Miller, (Cal.,) Miller, (New York,) Mitchell, Palmer, Pike, Plumb, Sawyer, Van Wyck and Wilson; 26.

Nays—Aldrich, Bayard, Beck, Brown, Call, Cockrell, Coke, Colquitt, Edmunds, Fair, Farley, Garland, George, Morgan, Groome, Hampton, Harris, Hawley, Jackson, Jonas, Jones, (Florida,) Kenna, Lamar, McPherson, Maxey, Morgan, Morrill, Pendleton, Pugh, Ransom, Riddleberger, Saulsbury, Sewell, Sherman, Slater, Vance, Vest, Walker and Williams; 130.

Mitchell offered as an amendment the substance of the pension bill introduced by Cullom early in May, providing pensions for "invalid soldiers and sailors who have been discharged from the army or navy of the United States after three months service in the war of the rebellion, and for widows and dependent parents of deceased pensioners." Adopted; 32 yeas, 27 nays. Bowen voted aye; Hill absent.

Before this was agreed to Morgan moved to postpone consideration of the bill until December, as he said Mexican soldiers could not get a fair chance while this bill was being treated as a political measure. Lost.

After some further discussion it was agreed to adopt the 10 minute rule for speeches to-morrow and come to a vote on the bill and amendments at three o'clock.

Adjourned.

The Markets.

NEW YORK, June 23.—Money 7½, advancing to 15, broke to 2, closing offered at 2; prime paper 5 to 6; sterling exchange weak and lower 4 83¼, demand 4.84½; governments weak, fours declined 1, 4½s ¼ per cent, no demand for bonds; railways weak and lower, state securities quiet. The stock market opened firm, rose ¼ to 1⅛ percent, Quincy, Union Pacific and Lake Shore being features in the advance, the former of short duration. Soon after the opening a selling movement set in which lasted with interruptions till after 2 p m. Reports affecting the credit of prominent capitalists and financial institutions were freely circulated, but the reports in each case proved unfounded. Money was again manipulated and the rate was bid up to 15 per cent. During the afternoon houses with Chicago connections were free sellers, and this had an unsettling effect. Lackawanna was exceptionally strong and closed ¾ per cent higher on the day. The weakest stocks were St. Paul, Northwestern, Union Pacific, Quincy, Illinois Central, Chicago & Alton, Canada Southern and Western Union. In the afternoon money became easier and a firmer tone prevailed in the stock market. Prices rallied ½ to 2½ per cent. In final dealings the improvement was partially lost, but the market closed steady. Lackawanna advanced ¾ to 101¾, dropped to 99¾ and rose to 101½. The closing figures compared with Saturday's closing prices are ½ to 7 per cent lower. Active shares commanded a bonus for use. Lackawanna lent at 1-64 to 1-32 per cent per diem. Transactions 470,000; Western Union 77,000, Northern Pacific 21,000.

GENERAL MATTERS.

Dissatisfied Republicans in Connecticut Organizing.

New York Democrats Working up a Cleveland Boom.

Points of England's Plan for Egyptian Neutralization.

Republican Independents.

NEW HAVEN, June 23.—Republican independents to night organized with Simon E. Baldwin chairman. Rev. Stuart Mearns, Simon E. Baldwin, F. Tyler and others made addresses. Resolutions adopted were that the national republican convention in Chicago has in its platform departed from the principles on which the party was founded and from the purposes for which the party exists; that the convention has still further disappointed those who desire a pure administration and advance in the standard of political action by the nomination of James G. Blaine and John A. Logan; that it is the duty of every man who is in sympathy with the principles of republicans, to stand by these principles, even though the party may desert them; that these candidates are unworthy of our support, that a committee be appointed by the chairman which committee shall nominate and report a standing committee of 25 including themselves in this number, to correspond with other bodies of republican or independent voters who may be in sympathy with our views and represent the sentiment of this meeting at any general conference which may be called.

A Cleveland Boom.

NEW YORK, June 23.—At a meeting of the County democracy to-night it was announced that 525 members would go to the convention at Chicago. Commissioner Thompson offered a resolution instructing representatives of the several districts to organize Cleveland clubs in their localities and to form a general club when they reach Chicago. Col. John B. Fellows, district attorney, seconded the resolution and said he believed two-thirds of the New York delegates to Chicago were in favor of Cleveland. He was the best man of the democracy since Andrew Jackson.

Canada—Reciprocity.

OTTAWA, June 23.—It is reported the government has arranged a reciprocity treaty with the United States, shortly to be made public. The new treaty will follow the lines of the former reciprocity treaty, admitting natural products and same articles in the earlier stages of manufacture. The defeat of the Morrison tariff bill in the United States house of representatives is alleged to be largely the cause of the renewal of negotiations.

New York Republicans United.

LOCKPORT, N. Y., June 23.—Hon. James D. Warren, editor of the Buffalo Commercial Advertiser and chairman of the republican state committee last year, is now visiting in this city and was interviewed to-day. He said: "I went to Chicago, as all know, as the personal friend of President Arthur, a man whom I believe to be as pure and well-intentioned a statesman as this country has ever yet produced. I was sincere in my advocacy of the president's nomination. The Arthur men worked hard, and in my judgment Mr. Arthur would have been nominated on the second ballot, had the independents turned and helped. As for myself I refused all overtures looking to any other nomination than Mr. Arthur as against Mr. Blaine, although such overtures were formally made by the independents through Mr. Schurz and others. I do not believe in dark horses. With me it was Arthur or Blaine, and no compromise. We Arthur men have of course come home from Chicago disappointed, but we support the ticket. I said at Chicago, in some heat, possibly, that Blaine could not carry New York, but I have changed my mind. With proper effort he can carry New York, and in my judgment he will. The independents are hardly a factor to be considered outside of a few cities. Although I expect to work for the election of Blaine and Logan, and while I appreciate the suggestion in some quarters to keep me at the head of the state committee, I certainly could and would not accept the position. It is courteous and right that the Blaine element should be represented in that place. It is right also that they should assume the responsibility of the position and of the canvass. A little time must be given for feelings to cool. We shall shortly be found working earnestly for the ticket, which, believe me, will be elected. Cleveland is the weakest nomination the democrats could make. To begin with, he will lose a large proportion of the Irish vote in western New York. He certainly will in Buffalo. His persecution of editor Purcell, an Irishman and a Roman Catholic, as well as other similar individuals, will tend to this effect. He will not get a majority of the republican vote that was wrongly cast for him [illegible] Blaine will easily defeat him."

The Egyptian Conference.

LONDON, June 23.—In the commons to-day Gladstone made an elaborate statement concerning the Egyptian invasion, of which an elaborated official report has already been given, of the substance of the correspondence between Earl Granville and Waddington, French minister. The neutralization of Egypt, Gladstone said, is to be deferred until England withdraws from the country. Gladstone further stated that a conference of the powers would meet on Saturday next. Its province would be to decide in regard to Egyptian finances, but no decision which it might form would be of any force until parliament should give its assent.

In the lords, Granville explained the conference scheme, making a statement similar to that made by Prime Minister Ferry to the French chamber of deputies. The Marquis of Salisbury said the statement of the foreign secretary contained much that was perilous to British interests and was full of menace for the future peace of the world.

Intense discontent prevails among a group of independent liberals in regard to Gladstone's statement concerning Egyptian affairs.

Granville's Note.

LONDON, June 23.—It is officially announced that on June 16 Granville, foreign secretary of state, addressed a note to Waddington, French minister, the substance of which was as follows: England undertakes to withdraw her troops from Egypt at the beginning of 1888 in case the powers consider such withdrawal possible without endangering public order. The Caisse de Ladette Publique, after 1885, will have a consultive voice in regard to the budget, and have the right to veto any increase of expenses on the part of the government. It shall continue to exercise the right of financial inspection after the evacuation of the country by the English, in order to insure regular collection of the revenue. England also undertakes during her occupation to propound schemes to the porte and the powers for the neutralization of Egypt, like Belgium, and for the neutralization of the Suez canal. In reply Waddington gave assurances of satisfaction of France in the noted points suggested by Granville. France, he said, accepts Granville's proposal and testified to England's moderation and friendly spirit, which it believes will strengthen the bonds which bind the two countries together.

The Racing Record.

CHICAGO, June 23.—Attendance upon the third day of the midsummer racing meeting at the Chicago driving park was fair; weather very warm; track stiff. The first race, for "Green stakes," for 3-year-olds, starters Strickland, Jaquita, Cora Baker, King Troubler, Acton, Venture, Lilly's Benita, Savannah, Madison and Hallway. Strickland jumped into the lead, Venture and Benita close together. Strickland was never headed and won in a gallop by five lengths; Savannah 2d, Madison a poor third; time 2 02½. Distance 1⅛ miles.

Second race, club purse $400, all ages, one and three quarter miles; starters Shenandoah, Bob Miles, George L. Boulevard, Keen and April Fool. April Fool, the favorite, took the lead which he increased to three lengths, Boulevard, Shenandoah and Miles close together. There was little or no change for a mile and a half. At that point April Fool had come back even with Miles and there was a punishing finish between Miles and April Fool. Miles won, April Fool second, Boulevard third by three lengths. Time 3:15½.

A Destructive Cloud-burst.

HELENA, MONT., June 23.—Yesterday a cloud-burst occurred on a mountain side near Corbin's, twenty miles south of Helena. A breast of water eight feet deep rushed down the gulch toward Jefferson City, in its course washing away a Chinese house and drowning three occupants. An alarm was telegraphed down to Jefferson from Corbin's, and part of the people found refuge on the hill near by while others sought the second floors. The water spread before reaching the town and when it passed through the streets was not deep enough to sweep away any but a few small houses and nobody was drowned. A quarter of a mile of the Helena & Jefferson railway was washed out and much damage was done to goods in the stores and crops on the ranches.

Mormon Recruits.

NEW YORK, June 23.—Twenty-five Mormon missionaries with 500 converts, 401 Scandinavians and 100 English, arrived in the steamship Arizona en route for Salt Lake City, under charge of Chief Elder C. H. Nye. Elder Nye said, "The converts I bring are not all recent accessions, some having been members of the church over 30 years. Through lack of means or other causes they have been unable to come here sooner." Referring to the arrest of Mormon missionaries in Vienna Mr. Nye says, "I do not contemplate any serious outcome from it. Austria is very intolerant. I look upon the trouble as only temporary and is doing our church more good than harm."

After the Riot.

CINCINNATI, June 23.—The jury in the case of Joseph Palmer, the accomplice of W. A. Berner, returned a verdict of murder in the first degree. This verdict only emphasizes the indignity of the Berner verdict. Berner and Palmer together killed Wm. Kirk, their employer, in his stable for his money. They both confessed. Proof in both cases was practically the same, yet Berner's jury brought in a verdict of manslaughter. It was this gross travesty of law and justice that produced the excitement which led to the riots and burning of the court house. Berner has twenty years in the penitentiary; Palmer must hang.

Kentucky Killings.

CINCINNATI, June 23.—The Commercial Gazette's Mt. Sterling, Ky., special says: News from eastern Kentucky has just been received that four men were killed. Peyton Strickland was shot from the woods while at work in a field in Wolfe county. A man named Davis was arrested on suspicion. Frank Sharpe was stabbed and killed last Saturday in Stillwater, Wolfe county, by an old man, name not known. Kirby Ashburn, who was threatening to kill Mr. Bird in his store in Morgan county, was instantly killed by Bird.

Killed by a Guard.

KANSAS CITY, June 23.—A Times Little Rock, Ark., special says: John Barnes, recently sent to the penitentiary for safe blowing from Miller county, was shot dead by a guard this morning while endeavoring to escape from the stockade at Lewisburg. Barnes was formerly a contractor on the Texas Pacific railroad.

THE SAWDUST TRACK.

Opening Night of the Six-day Go-as-you-please.

An Exciting Contest Between Ten of Our Amateurs.

Cummings Ahead Score of the Other Walkers.

At promptly 7:10 o'clock last night the six-day go-as-you-please race between ten Colorado Springs amateurs started at the roller rink with the following entries. Chas. Shaw, George McKenzie, Lew Cummings, W. R. Nimmo, D. Armitage, K. Carroll, D. C. Goddard, C. H. Thomas, Frank Irish and A. C. Scott. E. A. Low was chosen referee and Messrs. Rowell, Noble and Tucker scorers. The men drew for positions starting in threes with the tenth man bringing up the rear. All started out at a lively trot, Carroll taking the lead and keeping it for the first two miles, which he made in seventeen minutes. He worked hard however, and it was evident that he could not keep it up. Armitage, Thomas, Cummings and Shaw kept well together during the first hour, the latter two making frequent and interesting spurts. Shaw seemed to be the favorite and considerable money was ventured by some of his friends on his making the most miles for the evening. At the end of the first hour there was quite a large number of spectators present, and as the contest progressed the excitement seemed to increase. At that hour the score stood:

	Miles.	Laps.
Cummings	7	1
Shaw	7	1
Thomas	7	1
Goddard	6	10
Armitage	6	7
Nimmo	6	11
Carroll	6	1
Scott	5	1
Irish	5	0
McKenzie	5	0

In the beginning of the second hour several of those who had previously kept up a pretty steady trot began to weaken and settle down to a walk, while several of those who were in the lead tried hard to maintain it. During this hour the contest seemed to lay principally between Cummings, Thomas and Shaw. Nimmo came to the front as a good heel and toe walker and was frequently applauded. At the end of the second hour the score stood:

	Miles.	Laps.
Cummings	15	13
Shaw	13	9
Thomas	13	1
Nimmo	12	4
Irish	12	2
Goddard	11	10
Armitage	11	5
Scott	11	3
McKenzie	10	1
Carroll	10	1

During the closing half hour the utmost excitement prevailed. As the leaders in the contest turned the home stretch or passed one another they would be loudly cheered. It was very plain that unless Shaw made an extraordinary spurt he could not overcome the four laps lead Cummings had obtained. When the bell tapped the hour of closing the following was the score:

	Miles.	Laps.
Cummings	16	14
Shaw	16	10
Thomas	15	3
Nimmo	15	1
Irish	14	10
Goddard	14	6
Armitage	13	8
Scott	13	1
McKenzie	13	7
Carroll	10	0

SAWDUST.

Carroll left the track after making eight laps in the last half hour.

Everything passed off very harmoniously last night, there not being a single appeal to the referee.

The average made by the walkers last night was about fifteen miles. Pretty good for amateurs.

At half past seven to-night the contestants will start out on another two and a half hours go-as-you-please.

Thomas left the track looking as fresh as when he first went on. He, we predict, will set some of them to thinking to-night.

When it comes to a square heel and toe contest Nimmo can get away with them all. He scored 15 miles last night and seldom left a walk.

Music will be furnished every night during the week and the walking does not interfere with skating, as the track is separate from the floor.

The Coal Miners' Strike.

COLUMBUS, O., June 23.—The balance of the miners in Hocking Valley came out to-day against a reduction of ten cents. Thirty-two mines are now closed, including all those of the Ohio Coal Exchange, Columbus and Hocking Valley Coal and Iron Co., Upson Coal Co., Shawnee Valley Coal and Iron Co., A. X. mines, Gorsline & Barber's and G. A. Blood's mine. About 15,000 are thus thrown out of employment besides those living along railroads tributary to the coal region.

A Cholera Scare.

PARIS, June 23.—Twenty deaths of cholera at Toulon were reported yesterday. The city is in a panic. The government has ordered the barracks evacuated and sanitary precautions are organizing.

Eight thousand persons left Toulon yesterday. Camps are being formed for occupation of the navy crews. Pupils of the public schools have been dismissed. There is a cholera scare at Marseilles. Five deaths from cholera at Toulon to-day.

We trust all the Denver Republican says in the following will be found to be based on fact: "The hopes of the Chaffeeites have "once again been shattered. Their chief is "not only not chairman of the national com- "mittee, but not even a member of that body. "This is indeed wormwood and gall to the "ancient political fraud. He was not put "upon the committee by the Colorado delega- "tion at Chicago, the state having been "passed, and it was only upon his famous "'cheek' that he presumed to act upon a com- "mittee of which Governor Routt is still the "member. A protest has been forwarded "formally denouncing this assumption of "authority on the part of Mr. Chaffee. The "committee will heed the protest."

The Rev. Joseph Cook is not a meek and lowly man. While traveling, he has shown himself to be greedy, selfish, rude and ungentlemanly. It is injuring his reputation very much and shows that much of his religion belongs only to the platform. The following from the Lansing, (Michigan), Telegram is the latest story about him:

On Tuesday morning, as one of Porter & Goodrich's hacks was on its way to the Lake Shore & Southern Michigan depot, a traveling man with a heavy "grip" hailed the driver and told him he would ride. He had a freshly lighted cigar in his mouth, and as he went toward the back its occupant notified him that the smoker could not ride with him. Politely tossing the cigar aside, he approached the hack, but the occupant again informed him that he could not ride with him; that he had hired that hack. The man of the "grip," without reply, told the driver to go ahead.

Arrived at the depot, the aristocratic passenger tendered half a dollar as his fare, but the driver told him it was in this case, a dollar; that he could ride anywhere in the city for twenty-five cents, but if he hired the hack all for himself the fare was a dollar. The vituperation and loud abuse that flowed from that man's tongue is almost beyond belief. Lie, thief, etc., with the usual stock expressions of a blackguard, flew thick and fast. The station agent, hearing the altercation, and knowing his duty as an officer of the law, put in his appearance and demanded to know the cause thereof. The autocrat of billingsgate vented his vials of wrath and ugly spleen on him in terms not fit for publication, but was finally obliged to listen to our "Mack" long enough to be convinced that he must both keep still and pay the dollar demanded. With many threats that he would report Mack as in league with liars and thieves, he departed. This was the Rev. Joseph Cook, of Boston.

Prominent members of the land league have come out for Blaine and Mr. Blaine's leading papers are giving great prominence to the fact. The impression among the Irishmen is that Blaine will find some excuse to twist the British lion's tail and make him growl. They seem to count on his being quick to take offense, and that his policy will bring on a war between this country and England and so help Irish independence. There are three reasons why republicans should not make such low appeals to our Irish citizens to induce them to vote the republican ticket:

First—Because it is not honest. Mr. Blaine has too much sense to involve this country in a war with England without sufficient cause. He will not make himself the tool of a lot of dynamite agitators.

Second—If there was ground for believing that Mr. Blaine will do all that the land league expects in his foreign policy, it is un-American and unpatriotic to urge the Irish-Americans to vote for him for this reason. We have too much Ireland in this country now. We have a large mass of citizens whose first interests are not here but in a foreign country. This is very unhealthful. This talk to the Irishmen simply increases this un-American condition of affairs. The appeal is to the patriotic sons of a foreign country to vote for Mr. Blaine on the political issues in a foreign country. Mr. Blaine should run as an American on American issues and seek only American votes. We cannot afford to have the campaign fought on other issues. The introduction of Irish issues into our politics is fraught with danger. No foreign-born American citizen should be urged to vote for Mr. Blaine because of its effect on the politics of his native land. We want no Germans, Italians, Frenchmen or Englishmen but only American citizens. All [illegible] to keep these foreign sympathies dormant. If appeals are to be made to Irish-Americans to vote for Blaine, let them be urged to vote thus as Americans not Irishmen and because of love of this country not of Ireland. There are plenty of good American issues that can be urged to induce native-born Irishmen to vote the republican ticket.

Third—Because such foolish talk by responsible parties will have the effect of a boomerang. The people don't want a war with Great Britain. The people also think that it is not our business to interfere with the domestic affairs of a foreign power. In trying to give the desired impression to Irishmen of Blaine's anti-English foreign policy, the impression must also be given to other Americans who will detest such a foreign policy and will consider it of transcendent importance to beat Blaine. Irish dynamite votes cannot be gained without the loss of more conservative votes.

Let us have more conscience and honesty in this canvass and less demagogism.

PERSONAL.

Mr. George W. Cable has leased a pleasant cottage about ten miles from Hartford, Connecticut, and will pass the summer there.

The well-known scholar, Francois Lenormant, author of The Beginnings of History, writes to the author of Atlantis, expressing great interest in that work.

Miss Breon, a bright young French woman, has been graduated from the Sorbonne with the degree of Bachelor of Letters and Sciences. She is made of good stuff. During her medical course she supported herself and her sister by teaching.

An interesting character in Miss Grale's novel Godfrey Helstone is Mr. Boresford, described as a "genial, wholesome, sweet-natured old gentleman rector, with no very great enthusiasm for his calling, and conscious that he might have been many useful in going other rank of life."

In view of the establishment of a modern language tripos at Cambridge University, England, a late writer congratulates those teachers "who have long recognized German as affording the linguistic training of which Latin and Greek have been supposed to hold a monopoly." He adds that "it is now felt that French and German, if taught on the same scientific principles as Greek and Latin, are of hardly less value as an educational instrument than the classical languages."

A candidate for West Point must be "well versed" in reading, writing, arithmetic, descriptive geography, and the history of the United States, and must be of "sound body and constitution, good natural capacity, aptitude for study, industrious habits, perseverance, obedient and orderly disposition, and correct moral deportment." He must also be of "suitable preparation," and between the ages of seventeen and twenty-two. There are a multitude of well-bred young Americans who can fill this bill.

The Hon. James B. Eustis, who was recently chosen to succeed Hon. B. F. Jonas as senator from Louisiana, is a graduate of Harvard College, and is well known in social and political circles throughout his state. The contest between him and Mr. Jonas in the democratic caucus was very strong and close, the decisive vote being 53 to 53. The result was cheerfully acquiesced in by the defeated senator, and both men made short speeches complimenting each other and expressing feeling of the warmest friendship.

On the 8th of last January General Sherman wrote to an officious person who attempted to sound him upon the subject of the nomination for the presidency: "It gives me a twinge of pain every time I see my name in print on any subject other than my pure official work. I am not and never will be a candidate for any office, and think I can look ahead with some composure to passing the evening of my life in comparative ease and repose at St. Louis, Missouri. Surely in this land of freedom that much can be conceded to an old soldier."

A Whimsical Actor.

Reminiscences of the American Stage in the Manhattan for July.

Notwithstanding the annoyance he had caused, Mr. Cromwell's whimsicality had rendered him sometimes very amusing. Every night he made his appearance the audience distinguished him from all the other performers by a peculiar loud hiss at his entrance and exit, neglecting him entirely while on the stage. Thus, though no "star," he certainly exerted the malign influence once attributed to those bodies by exciting what, in the pit, amounted to a hurricane of displeasure, which in its collective elements of hisses, abuse and stampings it might have been imagined no one could have withstood. He, however, remained always unbending as the oak before the blast which assails it. He continued his speech, he maintained his position, he looked his adversaries in the face and, and with a smile. He might have borrowed the language of Richard —"I can smile, and smile and murder" (as regards his part) while I smile." One evening during the performance of the "Mogul Tale," in which I played Johnny Atkinson, the cobbler, Mr. Cromwell, who was playing the Mogul, instead of making his exit at the proper time, and leaving me to take my flight home by myself, persisted in remaining on the stage. Unable to conjecture his reason for this embarrassing conduct I kept making signs and whispering to him to go on, but all in vain; and even when called from behind the scenes, he imperturbably maintained his position until the curtain dropped. On inquiring immediately with some asperity what was the meaning of his paying such disregard to the stage directions and the plot of the piece, he replied at once—"I had an excellent reason, sir." "I should be glad if you would favor me with it, then." "Oh, certainly—you must be aware, Mr. Bernard, what would have been the consequence if I had made my exit at the proper time." "Indeed I am not; what would?" "Why, a long and loud hissing that would have lasted perhaps for fifteen minutes." "Well, sir!" "Well—that hissing at my going off, must, you know, have interrupted your scene; so from no interest of my own so much as to preserve you from annoyance I continued on the stage, knowing they wouldn't hiss till I was gone, and not caring, you know, when once the curtain was down, whether they hissed or not. Don't you see my reason now?" To such an argument I was not prepared to reply.

White Elephants.

Frank Vincent, Jr., in The Manhattan for July.

It is three hundred years since the western world received the first extended account of the wonderful white elephant. This account came from an Englishman, named Fitch (who must have encountered great difficulties in travelling through Burmah at that time), and may be found in Hakluyt's quaint and famous "Collections of Navigations, Trafiques, and Discoveries." This tells us that at that time the king of Burmah had four white elephants, which were very strange and rare. It also records that if any other king had one, the Burmese king would send for it, and would rather lose part of his kingdom that not get it. The chronicle further tells us that when any white elephant was taken to the king, all the merchants of the city were commanded to visit it, upon which occasion each of them presented it with half a ducat. As there were a great many merchants, this made a good round sum. At that time, the white elephant stood in the king's house, and received great honor and service. Each of them had an apartment of its own, decorated with golden ornaments, and ate its food from gold and silver vessels. Every day, when they went to the river to bathe, canopies of silk or cloth of gold were held over them, and drums, clarionets, or other instruments accompanied them. As they came out of the river, each had a gentleman in waiting to wash its feet in a silver basin, an officer being appointed for that honor by the king. The black elephants were not so well treated. They were evidently regarded as the canaille, though some of them were very handsome and fully nine cubits, or thirteen and a half feet high.

The Ruined City in Arizona.

Boston Journal.

The ruined cliff city discovered in Arizona last summer occupied the sides of a canon which has been christened Walnut Canon. It is an immense fissure in the earth, with nothing above the general level of the country to indicate its existence to the traveler until he stands upon the sides of its almost precipitous brink. The sides have been gullied by storms and torrents, leaving shallow, cave-like places of great length at different heights, along the bottom of which, when the ledge furnishes sufficient area, dwellings in groups or singly were built. The village was about three-quarters of a mile in length, and consisting of a single row of houses, the common rear wall being the living rock, while the sides and front were of large square stones laid in clay. A narrow street or path extended along the front. Similar villages extended along the canyon for a distance of five miles. Although many domestic implements were found, nothing was discovered which indicated the character of the people who once inhabited them. There were no weapons of war, trophies or idols, hieroglyphics or pictures. There was nothing to identify them with the uncivilized races of the present day, and though the wide extent of the ruins indicate the existence once of allied races covering large portions of the present territories of Arizona, New Mexico and Utah, as well as northern Mexico, their origin and history constitute an unsolved problem. Four hundred years ago, when first discovered, they were, as now, vacant and ruined.

By ALFRED B. CONKLING,

Member of the New York Academy of Sciences and formerly United States Geologist.

Letter from Gen. Grant.

NEW YORK CITY, Dec. 3, 1883.

Dear Sir—I have read over the advance sheets of your excellent "Guide Book to Mexico" with great pleasure. It supplies a want now for the first time being felt. Mexico, with all her resources of soil, climate, vast mines, has yet attracted much of the attention of people of other lands until within the last three or four years. Now, with the rapid strides she is making—and is destined to make—toward a commercial prosperity, surely equaled by any nation in the past, travel to that country will increase many fold, and your book will give the traveler the information he wants. Information is wonderfully condensed in it, and I wonder at its completeness in so little space.

Very truly yours, —U. S. GRANT.

ELK MOUNTAIN REGION.

Important Developments in a Rich District Over the Range.

We give place below to another letter from the Gunnison country in which many of our readers will be interested—

CRESTED BUTTE, Colo, June 10, 1884

Mr Geo R. Buckman, Colorado Springs

MY DEAR MR BUCKMAN—Your letter of the 10th inst reached me this morning on the first train we have had for a week On the night of the 13th we had a severe rain storm which, on top of the warm weather, converted the mountain snows into torrents of water and sent them booming down the streams. The railroad was washed out in several places, though fortunately no railway bridges gave way, but all wagon bridges on Coal creek, Slate river, East river, Taylor river and Gunnison river went down stream, and as a consequence country communications will be seriously disturbed for some time to come. Coal creek was roaring and spread all over Crested Butte west of 3d street Everyone turned out and by making ditches to turn the water down the streets relieved the pressure on the main stream None of my lots or my friends' were hurt, as far as I can see The city hall, on southwest corner Second and Elk avenue, was in great danger It had had three feet of water on the ground floor, and was only saved by filling the lower floor with rocks and by bracing it with ropes to trees etc, to keep it in place For two days and nights men had to be on guard, with poles and pikes, to keep logs and trees rushing down the torrent from crushing through its sides

But now the danger is over, and the rain has washed the snow out of the gulches to such an extent that by July 1st they will all be accessible to the miners These latter crowd the town to such an extent that it looks quite lively Great preparations are making for mining this year I was counting up to day with the editor of the Elk Mountain Pilot, recently moved down from Irwin, (an enterprising man who is publishing an excellent mining paper, and stirring things up in that line here in Crested Butte), and we find that taking only those mines of which we are now certain, there will be twenty two mines shipping mineral from Crested Butte by August Can any camp, town or city in Colorado say as much? These mines are principally in Poverty Gulch, but there are also four on Galena mountain, two or three on Treasury mountain, the Forest Queen" at Ruby, which Mr Holt told me yesterday would shortly have 40 men at work; and the great "Sylvanite" at Gothic, which has been at work all winter, and which has over 20 tons of very rich wire silver now ready to ship. This mineral is so rich that you cannot beg a cabinet sample as big as a walnut.

While I think of it, the "Venango" mine, at Irwin, belonging to Colonel De La Vergne, J. F. Seldomridge, W. B Gaskill and other Colorado Springs and Philadelphia capitalists, has made a tremendously rich strike It is being run on lease and the lessees have now considerable out of beautiful ore ready for shipment. Our friends, the owners of this valuable mine, are to be congratulated There are many more such valuable properties here, only needing development to show their riches, and I adhere to the conclusion I came to some time ago that in five years Crested Butte will be the greatest mineral shipping point in Colorado

The Colorado Coal & Iron company have all their coke ovens at work and the usual number of men on their rolls, which number, however, will shortly be increased. This company is building twenty houses on the mesa for the miners and is also making two new openings in the hill east of their present tunnel on what is known as the Skinner & Jefferson tract from which they will mine and market large quantities of excellent stove and steam getting coal. They have made a large contract to supply the Denver & Rio Grande engines, and it is said that one ton of this coal will do the work on an engine of one and one-quarter tons of Canon City coal.

The Anthracite Mesa Coal mining company have already booked contracts for anthracite coal, which will keep them running day and night, until January 1st, and their pay rolls will soon have double the number of men on them they ever had before In addition to those enterprises, a sampling and reduction works will soon be in operation here.

Now, in view of these things, which are solid facts, can you tell me why Crested Butte doesn't "boom?" Why, I was standing on the porch of the Elk Mountain house this morning, in conversation with one of the principal citizens of Gunnison City. He looked up the street, and turning round, said to me. "Why, captain, I see more men on this street, now, than there are in the whole city of Gunnison." And he was right. When these men get to work in their mines, money will commence to circulate and business will become brisk, more so than we have ever known it. I confidently expect an active movement in real estate by September

The snow is off the valleys and foothills, and as far as the eye can reach, until the line of vision strikes the snowy range, everything looks bright and green. I never saw the grass look greener, longer or richer for the season, and the cattle are rolling in fat. This valley affords about the best summer range to be found in Colorado. So soon as the waters of our streams subside somewhat, and become less muddy, then our excellent trout fishing commences, and after that, for sport, pleasure, climate, scenery and health, no place in Colorado presents greater attractions than Crested Butte. We have no wind or dust, no severe thunder storms close to us, no hot weather, and nothing to mar the beauties with which nature has so lavishly surrounded us. We have a good hotel and plenty to do and see, and we invite the world to call on us. Yours truly,

M. L. DeCOURSEY.

An Insurance Swindle

SAN FRANCISCO, June 23—A Chronicle Portland, Oregon, special says The house of Lewis Kackler, near Hillsboro, burned Saturday night and the supposed remains of Kackley were found in the ruins. It is believed he was murdered and the house fired. His wife and child were absent at her father's house. Investigation to day leads to the belief that the job was an insurance swindle, that an old skeleton was placed in the house to represent the supposed charred remains of Kackley. His wife when questioned acknowledged having insurance policies on the life of her husband and deeds of property. Before the coroner's jury she swore that she dreamed a man shot her husband. Fear compelled her to seek shelter at her father's house. Kackley is a German 35 years old, from Ida Grove, Iowa He arrived in Oregon three years ago He was insured in the New York Life for $3,000 It is stated he was seen in southern Oregon yesterday Further investigation by the jury was continued to Wednesday

HOUGHTON, MIFFLIN & CO'S NEW BOOKS.

A COUNTRY DOCTOR A novel By Sarah Orne Jewett, author of "Deephaven," "Country By Ways," etc. 16mo, $1.25

In this novel Miss Jewett uses on a larger scene and with increased effect the qualities which have made her short stories so popular and so thoroughly delightful. A woman physician figures in it, but the story is quite unlike the novels by Mr Howells and Miss Phelps in which women physicians are the heroines It gives wonderfully accurate pictures of New England characters, customs and scenery, the heroine is "one of our girls" and as such will charm readers as few heroines do in current novels The freshness, the sincerity, the helpful sympathy, which render Miss Jewett's stories at once so attractive and wholesome, pervade "A Country Doctor," and can hardly fail to make it one of the most widely popular and welcome of this summer's novels

THE FATE OF MANSFIELD HUMPHREYS With the Episode of Mr Washington Adams in England, and an Apology. By Richard Grant White 16mo, $1 25

This is one of the most entertaining of "international" books, in which the mutual misconceptions and prejudices of Englishmen and Americans are developed and illustrated

PHŒBE A Novel By the author of "Rutledge." 16mo, $1.25

An American story in character and incidents told with so much life and spirit that it will be hailed as a special boon by novel readers To a multitude looking for summer reading, this story needs no other recommendation than that it is by the author of "Rutledge"

THE AMERICAN HORSEWOMAN By Elizabeth Karr. Illustrated, 12mo, $2 00

An admirably practical book The selection and management of a horse, all the details of equipment, every separate article of dress that the rider should wear, and the making of it—all these are described specifically and the book is made still more useful by illustrative cuts, the whole forming a manual of great value to any lady who would become thoroughly skillful in the equestrienne art.

SUMMER From the Journals of H D Thoreau, author of "Walden," "Cape Cod," etc Edited by H G O Blake With a map of Concord 12mo, gilt top, $1 50

This book comprises selections from Thoreau's Journals containing observations and reflections during the summers of many years Some of these are descriptive, with that fine photographic accuracy which marks Thoreau's picture's of natural scenes. Other passages contain those subtle reflections on society, religion, laws, literature, which also characterize whatever Thoreau wrote, and which pique the curiosity and stimulate the minds of his readers.

MAUD HOWE'S NOVEL.

"The San-Rosario Ranch!"

Third Thousand. $1.25.

This is an extract from the Boston Daily Advertiser's review, and there is no more able critical authority "The 'San Rosario Ranch' belongs to a noble class of novels, it deals with the deepest feelings, the strongest emotions and the most powerful motives in human life. It is on a high plain, far above the petty strife, ambition and jealousy out of which 'society novels' are manufactured. The book is written in a spirit of large sympathy, and without one touch of censoriousness or ridicule. This sympathy is far-reaching; it is given to the Indian, driven from his mission; to the faithful Chinaman, killed by the fury of a white scoundrel; to the rich and coarse Irishman, living in splendor and in fear of his butler of all of them some good is told, the best side is the one that is made prominent. The book is not a sermon, although its tone is so grave and its spirit so earnest, it is a good, warm love story, with plenty of life, of incident and of narrow escapes, and it is a very attractive picture of California life and California people."

"THE USURPER!"

An Episode in Japanese History.

A Romance. Translated from the French of Judith Gautier by Abby L. Alger. $1.50.

R. H. Stoddard, the poet, writes of the "Usurper": "It is a romance in the best sense of the word. There is nothing in English fiction with which we can compare a romance like this unless it be Scott's 'Ivanhoe.' We do not propose to tell, even to indicate, the story of this romance, which is well conceived, shapely in its parts and consistent as a whole, not to hint at the personality of the different characters, two of which are as noble as they are beautiful; all that we propose to do is simply to say: Here is a prose poem of the Japan of A. D. 1615 It represents the life and manners of that country at that time the splendid, strong life and the barbaric manners—and so represents them that they pass before the imagination like a gorgeous pageant a pageant the picturesqueness of which recalls its only parallel in modern fiction—the background of George Ebers's 'Daughter of an Egyptian King.' If Mlle. Gautier is not a woman of genius she is nothing."

A cordial invitation is extended to all, and strangers will be specially welcome

The six members of the Colorado Wheel club who visited Colorado Springs two weeks ago were so well pleased with their visit that they prevailed upon a majority of the other members coming here on Sunday They however did not undertake the tiresome 75 mile trip over the divide, but came down on the Denver & New Orleans train bringing their machines with them From the depot they rode through some of the principal streets of Colorado Springs, thence to Manitou After dinner, at the Manitou house, the party rode up Ute Pass where they were photographed by W H Jackson, the Denver artist. The return trip from Manitou was made via the Garden of the Gods The following are those composing the party A Jackson, captain, C H Failing, first lieutenant, W N Mcbird, second lieutenant, C N McCook, third lieutenant, C B Kimball, secretary and treasurer F J Chamard, bugler H W Davis, M L Whitten, W F Payne, L K Watkins, F W Wood, A B Jefferay, E B Hosford, Wm Prackwinkle, L B Johnson, F L McFarland, P E Kimball, H G Kennedy A H Whalle, of Colorado Springs, accompanied them
